President Says: Our Home Association

Dear Colleagues,

A few days ago, I just casually visited our NIMA office in Mumbai. For a while I recalled the memories of the days when I used to visit our Dadar office, Mumbai, at least every alternate day.

I started my practice in 1961. Slowly I became a member of the Maharashtra state Integrated Medical Association and the Insurance Medical Practitioners' Association. Whenever I used to attend their meetings, I came in contact with the stalwarts of the association, like Dr. Nagral, Dr Kinjawadekar, Dr. Raut, Dr. Awasthi, etc. I came to know about the circumstances that had risen and the obstacles faced by NIMA.

Dr. Nagral and Dr. Kinjawadekar who were the Chief Editors of the Journal started bombarding the readers with their editorials. The points raised seemed to be very accurate, legal, and attention-catching. The results were very effective and fruitful.

In this era, NIMA has progressed very effectively throughout the nation.Very effective and progressive help was given to all members often by NIMA branches in all states and shared with all our colleagues. Our selected good lawyers fed our committee members with effective, good knowledge about the various resolutions put up in the Lok Sabha by various committees. The results were always fruitful.

The new NIMA Bhavan; head office situated in Delhi, is a feather in the cap of our association. Today we have our own big offices in Delhi, Mumbai, and many other places. We are publishing our Journal regularly every quarter with good informative and new knowledge useful for our members in their practice.

We are proud that our members receive good knowledge, good support, and good guidance..
